

January 12th, 2022

Hello my dear friend

Today I want to share with you a story about the movie THE CRACK. In THE CRACK, there is a plot where Xiangyang swallows the model's bicycle key, which comes from Wake's experience, which is a romantic story.

In 1987, I came across a temperamental girl in Jinan. She had the feeling of the heroine in the movie Malèna, so I went to the store to buy white wine and poured it into my stomach to strengthen myself, and caught up with the girl to invite her to dinner. Halfway through the meal, she felt that I was a little rude, and was about to take the bike key and leave. I was so reluctant to give up, I grabbed the key in her hand and swallowed it quickly, and the girl left angrily. But the bicycle key was stuck in the middle of my collarbone and couldn't go up and down. It hurt me to roll over and stay awake all night.

The next day I endured the pain and went to the hospital where she worked and said I would return her keys. She used forceps to remove the bloody key from my throat, and then she turned her back and secretly wiped away tears. Then she showed me the X-ray she took of me—the key was stuck between my collarbone, as if a pilgrim was looking at the heart below, trying to open the door to my heart. She asked me to send her the X-ray as a souvenir. . .

I think it's really a crazy thing, with the neuroticism of an artist. I have never done anything like this in my lifetime! Maybe I'm a coward. Haha:)

Have a lovely day!

Bai

